Practical Strategies to Integrate Cultural Responsiveness in Pediatric Feeding Interventions in Occupational Therapy (1 PDU)

Presenter Merry Lee, OTD, OTR/L

This session will highlight actionable strategies for integrating cultural responsiveness into pediatric feeding interventions within occupational therapy. Participants will learn how to honor family food traditions, mealtime routines, and cultural values to improve engagement and outcomes.

Value Pricing! Members $19 | Nonmembers $29

Merry Lee, OTD, OTR/L, is an experienced pediatric occupational therapy practitioner with more than 14 years specializing in sensory integration, feeding and swallowing, and family-centered care. She is a clinical assistant professor at the USC Chan Division, where she teaches pediatric courses including the Pediatrics Immersion and online Sensory Integration certificate program, and mentors students in their final-year training. Lee is SIPT certified and holds Advanced Practice in Swallowing Assessment, Evaluation, and Intervention. Formerly a clinician and leader at Pediatric Therapy Network, she now focuses on teaching, mentorship, and advancing best practices in pediatric occupational therapy.
